

Joe Do

An interactive resting tone song for elementary music

Jennifer Bailey

© Copyright Jennifer Bailey.
All rights reserved.

THANK YOU!!!

I hope you enjoy using this resources in your classroom. If possible, please leave feedback on this item at my store on TeacherPayTeachers. The feedback helps me as a seller to continue to improve and make quality resources for you. It also helps me understand how you use them in your own musical setting.

The contents of this files are for single classroom use only. As the purchaser, you have permission to copy these resources for use in your classroom or personal use. You may not distribute this file to other people to be used personally or commercially. My resources are not to be offered for download on any website or distributed digitally by any means.

If you have questions, please message me on Facebook or e-mail me at Singtokids@gmail.com.

Instructions

There are so many ways to have fun with this song! I begin by singing the song for my students. Add the resting tone (home tone) at the end of each phrase or anywhere you like! The trick to song is to make sure you vary the wait time before students sing the resting tone. The objective is for students to audiate (or inner hear) the pitch before they sing it.

Depending on your students' level of development, you can sing the resting tone on a neutral syllable or using solfege. Do what works for you! The purpose of this song is to develop audiation and to develop notation reading readiness.

To play the game, invite a student to find and click on Joe. Once Joe pops out, click on the resting tone to advance to the next phrase of the song.

Joe Do

Jennifer Bailey

I have a lit - tle friend his name is Joe. The on - ly thing he sings is this one tone. He loves to sing all day, he sings so sweet. I on - ly wish he'd sing more than this one thing.

Joe - - - - - do!

Credits

Thank you to these fabulous artist for their backgrounds, fonts, frames and clip art!

I have a little friend,
his name is Joe!

The only thing the he sings is the resting tone!

He loves to sing all day,
he sings so sweet!

I only wish he'd sing
more than this one thing!

Joe

